

The Zodiac Seeker

Welcome, Investigator.

You are about to enter The Zodiac Seeker, an alternate reality treasure hunt inspired by one of the most haunting unsolved mysteries of the 20th century. Your quest will lead you through a complex web of documents, diaries, letters, photographs, and audio. The experience will combine collaborative detective work, cryptic riddles, and psychological suspense.

How This Hunt Works

- Progress through the investigation by solving clues and uncovering evidence.
- Each discovery will lead you deeper into the mystery.
- Explore evidence: documents, personal accounts, hidden codes, photographs, voice logs, and maps.
- Pay attention to patterns, repeated names, and details. Not everything is as it seems.
- The goal: Uncover what really happened in California between 1968 and 1969

Your Objective

- Cross-correlate clues from every source: images, text, audio, and metadata.
- Identify inconsistencies and contradictions.
- Piece together the story of what happened.
- Discover the truth.

What to Look For

- Missing or unclear details in documents.
- Contradictions between different accounts.
- Symbols and codes throughout the materials.
- Emotional undertones and hidden meanings.
- Patterns that repeat across different sources

Participation Format:

- Teams or Individual participation allowed
- Teams: Minimum 2 members and maximum 4 members per team
- All team members must be from school only
- Individual participation is also welcome
- Important Note: Members who participate as part of a team cannot participate individually

Team Requirements:

- Each team member must be a verified school student
- Teams must register together during the sign-up phase
- Team registration is optional; participants can choose individual participation

Eligibility Rules:

- School students only (both individual and team participants)
- Once a member joins a team, they cannot register as an individual participant
- No cross-participation allowed between team and individual categories

Good luck, Investigators
